Purpose

On October 25, 2023, the Centre for Human Rights Research (CHRR) hosted a seminar on the topic of Islamophobia and colonial violence with Dr. Youcef Soufi from the Institute of Islamic Studies at the University of Toronto. The event focused on the experiences of solidarity and civil resistance of Muslim Canadians in the aftermath of 9/11 and during the US's global war on terror. As an extension of the seminar, this resource guide serves as a starting point for participants who would like to deepen their understanding of Islamophobia in the context of Canada through providing further readings and media.

Speaker

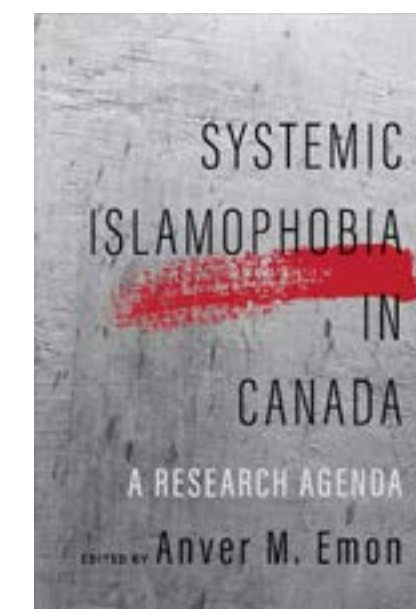

Dr. Youcef Soufi is a Research Associate with the Institute of Islamic Studies at the University of Toronto, where he led an international working group funded by the Connaught Global Challenge Foundation studying anti-Muslim racism within Western societies. He is an expert in the history of Islamic law and his first book, The Rise of Critical Islam: 10th-13th Century Legal Debate (Oxford University Press 2023), pushes back against secularist assumptions that Islam and critical speech are inherently at odds. His recent publications analyze North American Muslim communities' responses to anti-Muslim racism in the aftermath of 9/11. He is a contributor to the volume Systemic Islamophobia in Canada, published by the University of Toronto Press earlier this year and his forthcoming book tentatively titled On the Outskirts of Empire: Radicalization and State Surveillance on the Canadian Prairies will be published with NYU Press in 2024. Dr. Soufi is a former faculty member of the University of British Columbia's Classical, Near Eastern, and Religious Studies Department, responsible for the department's Islamic Studies program, and the former Chair of the Canadian Association for the Study of Islam and Muslims (CASIM).

What is Islamophobia?

As a part of Canada's Anti-Racism Strategy for 2019-2022, Canadian Heritage defines Islamophobia as a phenomenon which "includes racism, stereotypes, prejudice, fear or acts of hostility directed towards individual Muslims or followers of Islam in general... In addition to individual acts of intolerance and racial profiling, Islamophobia can lead to viewing and treating Muslims as a greater security threat on an institutional, systemic and societal level." (Canadian Heritage 2019, p. 23)

Islamophobia in Canada

The following initiatives serve to address Islamophobia within the context of North America:

Manitoba Islamic Association (MIA)

To bring awareness to and curb Islamophobia in their community, the Manitoba Islamic Association (MIA) has organized a resource hub on Islamophobia containing various resources such as infographics and reading lists for Muslim and non-Muslim individuals alike. In 2022, they published a report authored by Eve Sotiriadou and CHRR Research Affiliate Dr. Idris Elbakri on the experiences of the Manitoba Muslim community with Islamophobia, which can be accessed here.

Islamophobia Studies Centre (ISC) – Berkeley, California

The Islamophobia Studies Centre (ISC) is a not-for-profit research organization in Berkeley, California, US which aims to counter Islamophobia through educational and research efforts. In 2022, they published a report by Jasmine Zine on the Islamophobia industry in Canada.

Systemic Islamophobia Research Lab (SIRL) – Institute of Islamic Studies (IIS), University of Toronto

Housed in the University of Toronto, the Systemic Islamophobia Research Lab (SIRL) is a project from the Institute of Islamic Studies which aims to support research examining systemic Islamophobia in Canada.

The Canadian Islamophobia Industry Research Project – Wilfrid Laurier University

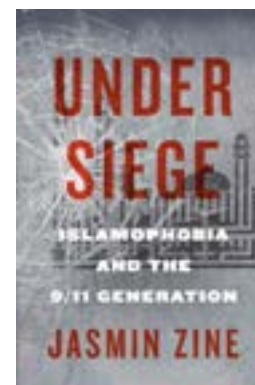

The Canadian Islamophobia Industry Research Project was created in support of Motion 103 \(M-103\) from the Canadian House of Commons, which acknowledged systemic Islamophobia in Canada. The initiative aims to investigate the institutions and systems which perpetuate Islamophobia in Canada.

Government of Canada - Combatting Islamophobia in Canada

Reflecting their commitment to diversity and inclusion, the campaign "Combatting Islamophobia in Canada" is part of the Government of Canada's anti-racism strategy.
